Against Change In Schedule Of National League

Heydler Doesn't Think Favorably Of Agitation For 154 Game Plan.

New York, Feb. 23.—President John A. Heydler, of the National league, stated today that he did not believe the agitation for a 154 game schedule would result in a change in the 1929 season plans.

"While it would be an easy matter from a physical standpoint to change the schedule at this time," said president Heydler, "the result would be both far reaching and confusing. The return to normal conditions throughout the country has been more rapid, perhaps, than was foreseen at our annual meeting, but any attempt to adjust our schedule now would produce complications which would offset any advantages to be gained by the additional 14 games."

Training Plans Completed. The various clubs of the league have completed their spring training plans, made dates for numerous exhibition games and decided on numerous contractual obligations, which it would be hard to rearrange. Furthermore, the early release of players now in government service and need the additional time to complete the team roster.

"It would be possible to change the length of the schedule by a telegram to the owners," Heydler said, "but the eight clubs voted in the affirmative. Similar action on the part of the American league would be necessary."
